

TORE OUT HIS EYES

Awful Result of An Explosion at Ann Arbor

PROF. CAMPBELL STRUCK BLIND

While Experimenting in the Chemical Laboratory of the University—He Wanted to Be Killed Outright.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 13.—An awful accident occurred in the chemical laboratory of the university yesterday. One of the members of the faculty, the son of a distinguished father and himself a young scientist of rare promise, had both eyes cut out with the fragments of a glass bottle blown to pieces in an explosion.

It was 3 o'clock when the explosion took place. The basement of the chemical laboratory was crowded with 200 or 300 students. Edward D. Campbell, assistant professor of chemistry, was engaged in a demonstration with hydrogen gas, with a large array of bottles on the desk in front of him. He was to measure the amount of hydrogen liberated by the action of acids on steel and the gases generated were passed through a piece of sponge palladium. The palladium became red hot during the progress of the experiment. Prof. Campbell had just bent down to look in the bottle which held the gas, when it exploded with a loud report, driving the glass in the smallest splinters directly into his eyes.

Blind for Life.
Dr. Carrow, who was called at once, found that one eye was cut into shreds and the sight of the other totally destroyed. The unfortunate professor was taken directly to the hospital, where treatment was applied to the two ghastly holes left under his eyebrows by the explosion. Later the mangled organs of vision were removed. The shock to Mr. Campbell when the doctor, at his earnest request, informed him that he would be a sightless man for life was a terrible one. He besought the doctor to put an end to his existence.

The professor's face was not much cut; nearly the whole of the flying glass having apparently lodged in his eyes. Hugh Vandewater, a student who stood by him at the time of the explosion, was not much injured. The patient on whom permanent darkness has descended, must remain in the hospital some days. Fears are expressed that the shock to his system and reflection on the awfulness of his condition may prove too great for nature to withstand, and that he may die of nervous exhaustion. The physician in charge, however, expresses a confidence that his life will be spared.

The University Would Appeal.
The result of the explosion, the first serious accident in the laboratory in years, made a most profound impression throughout the university. The question in everybody's mouth now is, what can Professor Campbell do, if he lives? He can no longer teach, of course, and the unanimous opinion is that the regent should pension him or create some special office to whom duties his great misfortune would not render him ineligible. He is a son of the late Judge J. V. Campbell, of the supreme bench, and has a wife and two children, one a mere infant. He is not yet 30 years old and had been connected with the university for only a year and a half. A slight accident performed by him last week, had led to the full extent of her husband's injuries and remained for some hours in the belief that the loss of sight was only temporary.

STATE MORTGAGE TAX LAW.

Few Leading Opinions from the Attorney General.

LANSING, April 13.—The following has been prepared by the attorney general with reference to the application of the mortgage tax law:

If the mortgage is larger than the value of the land, the same principles would apply as in any other case. The mortgage could only be assessed at its cash value which could not exceed the land, less the use of the land for the time that it would take to foreclose, and the expenses of foreclosure. The whole theory of the tax law is, that no person shall complain of any omission of irregularity, unless he can show that such omission or irregularity injured him.

Yet it would be far safer, in all cases, to require these statements, as outside parties, or parties concerning whose property the statement is not made, may have an interest therein. It is made the duty of the supervisor, in every case, to take such statements, and the only safe way is to follow the law.

Concerning the manner of assessing non-resident mortgages, they should be assessed the same as resident mortgages, placing the name of the owner of the mortgage on the roll. If the assessor cannot obtain this from the mortgagor, he is not furnished by the register of deeds. It is his duty, under the law, to assess the property.

General Ellis and Treasurer Huebner.

LANSING, April 13.—Attorney General Ellis takes issue with Treasurer Huebner of Wayne county that he is obliged to accept and give a receipt for liquor taxes tendered whether a bond be issued or not. Mr. Ellis says that the filing of the bond with the treasurer is the only evidence that the officer has that he has become entitled to receive a license by payment of the tax. That if he is unable to procure an indemnifying bond he does not become a taxpayer under the liquor law. Consequently did the parties fail to secure the bond the amount of the tax would be forfeited.
